Tenure-Track Assistant or Associate Professor
Program Development, Implementation, Monitoring, and Evaluation

The Department of Health Promotion, Education, and Behavior at the University of South Carolina (USC) Arnold School of Public Health (ASPH, www.sph.sc.edu) is seeking applicants for a tenure-track faculty position at the rank of Assistant or Associate Professor. Candidates are expected to have a doctoral degree in public health, health behavior, or a related social-science field, plus expertise and interests in development, implementation, monitoring, and evaluation of social, environmental, and behavioral programs, interventions, and policies. The successful applicant will be expected to teach courses using her/his expertise, to maintain an active and competitively-funded research program, and to supervise the research of masters and doctoral students.

The University of South Carolina is a comprehensive university classified by the Carnegie Foundation as having very high research and community-engagement activities. Topics of departmental research strength include health communication, use of technology for improving health and health systems, community-engaged interventions, global health, and social and behavioral determinants of health. Research centers at the USC ASPH have foci in cancer prevention and control, nutrition, physical activity, sexual health and HIV, health disparities, rural health, technology applications for health, disability, and environmental nanoscience.

Columbia, SC enjoys more than 300 days of sunshine annually, and has ready access to both beaches and mountains. The city is the state capital, and hosts historical and cultural festivals, performing arts, and sporting events, and has parks and outdoor recreation opportunities including the nearby Congaree National Park and 50,000-acre Lake Murray.

Applicants should send: 1) a cover letter stating career goals and the relevance of the candidate's training and experience to the position, 2) a current CV, and 3) names and contact information of three references. Please submit your application via e-mail to: pmetz@mailbox.sc.edu, or via regular mail to: Program Search Committee, Department of Health Promotion, Education, and Behavior, 915 Greene St., University of South Carolina, Columbia, SC 29208-4005. Applications will be reviewed as they are received and continue until the position is filled. The search coordinator is Ms. Pamela Metz (telephone: 803-777-7096). The University of South Carolina is an affirmative action, equal opportunity employer. Minorities and women are encouraged to apply.